-- The MAILING DATE of this communication appears on the cover sheet with the correspondence address --
Period for Reply

A SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD FOR REPLY IS SET TO EXPIRE 3 MONTH(S) FROM THE MAILING DATE OF THIS COMMUNICATION.

- Extensions of time may be available under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.136(a). In no event, however, may a reply be timely filed after SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- If the period for reply specified above is less than thirty (30) days, a reply within the statutory minimum of thirty (30) days will be considered timely.
- If NO period for reply is specified above, the maximum statutory period will apply and will expire SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- Failure to reply within the set or extended period for reply will, by statute, cause the application to become ABANDONED (35 U.S.C. § 133). Any reply received by the Office later than three months after the mailing date of this communication, even if timely filed, may reduce any earned patent term adjustment. See 37 CFR 1.704(b).

1. Applicant's election of group 1, figures 3 and 4 in the reply filed on 7/27/2005 is acknowledged. Because applicant did not distinctly and specifically point out the supposed errors in the restriction requirement, the election has been treated as an election without traverse (MPEP § 818.03(a)).

2. Claim 6 is objected to because of the following informalities: "the" is misspelled on line 3. Appropriate correction is required.

3. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

4. Claim 3 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. Claim 3 defines a single coil that alternately attracts or repulses the rotor. However, parent claim 2 is limited to the structure of two coils that simultaneously attract and repulse the rotor. It is not understood how a single apparatus can contain both a single coil that alternately attracts and repulses and dual coils that simultaneously attract and repulse.

5. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

6. Claims 1, 3, 4, 7 and 9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Toyama. Toyama discloses an electromagnetic apparatus including a frame 10, a through unit 21, 24, a coil 14, 15, a rotor 1, a shaft 7, 12, and a casing as is the outer exterior wall surrounding 14-17.

7. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

8. Claim 5 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Toyama in view of Yokoyama et al. Toyama discloses an electromagnetic apparatus substantially as claimed but does not disclose the housing to be made from resin. However, Yokoyama teaches another electromagnetic apparatus that is made from resin (col. 2, line 57) for the purpose of providing a convenient and readily available material in which to house the apparatus components. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to provide the apparatus of Toyama with a resin housing as, for example, taught by Yokoyama in order to provide a convenient and readily available material in which to house the apparatus components.

9. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Hirata et al., teaches another electromagnetic apparatus.

10. Claims 2, 6 and 8 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
